BEECHER
ON GOOD NATURED CHRISTIANS—HAPPINESS—HEDGE-HOGS AND STINGING NETTLES.

From the New York Herald of the 16th, we make the following extracts from a sermon preached by Mr. Beecher, from Romans 15th chapter: "Let every one of us please his neighbor for his good," &c.

He said a man's soul is like a garden belonging to an old mansion, full of excellent things, run to waste—never improved, cankered fruit trees, thickets of roses and thorns, tangled vines, nettles, weeds and flowers. Now it is the business of a garden to be wholesome and sweet and beautiful. It has no right to have weeds or dilapidation, It is made for pleasure and profit. The soul is full of good dispositions, kindly impulses, true affections, wholesome fruits, but it is also full of frets and murmurings and of pride and vanity and weariness. The soul's power to produce pleasure or pain in another is very great. If it throws upon another the whole force of its excellence and beauty it is full of cheer, but if it scowls upon its fellow it produces pain and trouble. We are commanded, therefore, so to use ourselves day by day as to yield pleasure. It is not optional with us whether we shall make men happy. It is our duty to live so as to please men for their good—to please them so that they will be nobler and more manly for our influence. The soul has an infinite fund of material with which to please. Its affections are full of sweetness; its wit, taste, imagination are patent engines of pleasure. But it is just as strong to produce happiness. Making people happy is not an unimportant thing. Our Lord did multitudes of things to and to produce amiable feelings in those around Him. While He was inspiring men to noble ambition and heroic living He filled His life with a thousand fine shadings of goodness. His example is quoted here for our imitation.

SMOOTH ASPERITIES

Men find the lower side of their natures easily brought into play. We contend with the world through our lower passions; we drudge by these. We are unable to rouse ourselves, to excite in ourselves our better natures. Men are feeble and liable to dwell in low, chilly fogs, to fret and despair. The undertone of human life is very sad. The most of households do not ring with cheerful voices like well tuned instruments, but are full of querulousness, groping and drudging. Men whom we like sparkle upon us and we sparkle back, but in the main there is more sadness and gloom than brightness and joy. Now it is not our duty simply to believe in

A HISTORICAL GOSPEL,

Society is full all around us of men whose lives average very little sweetness. It is for us to seek to make them happy. This we are ready enough to do if we want to see them. But the command is to do it benevolently, to so carry ourselves that the vibrations of our hearts shall bring music from our neighbor. If it is in the power of men to rouse others to hope, cheerfulness and good nature, then this is a Christian duty. Some men move through life like a band of music through the streets, filling the air with melody; they are like orchards in October, filling the whole region with bounty and sweetness. It is no unworthy object in life to fill the atmosphere of others with the brightness that they cannot make themselves. There is still a remnant of stoicism among good men. Men feel that happiness is well enough, but belongs to the surface; they aim to make men better, and let happiness take care of itself. But much of the

WRONG IN THE WORLD

springs from unhappiness. In general, happiness is favorable to virtue and morality, and unhappiness is favorable to sin. A man says: "My duty is to be honest and just, and not to be tickling people's palms to make them laugh." But you have no business to bear your honesty and justice in such a way as to make others unhappy. Of all creatures no one has a better right to be a hedgehog than a hedgehog; but is he a good neighbor? How many men tread carelessly among the sensitive nerves of other men with no excuse but that they believe in being "straight forward out and out." You say that roughness is better than

MACHIAVELLIAN VARNISH.

But why have either? Why not be just right? Why thrust out uncut nails to scratch? We are not at liberty to please for the sake of pandering to the bad in men's character—to feed malice, avarice and unmanly appetites. Blessed are the happiness makers—they who take away friction and smooth the cares of life and shine on gloom with cheer. Blessed are those whom God has equipped with wit, and humor and gay imaginations; they are God's torch bearers through the gloom of life. Until the world weeps less let there be more imagination to cover the reality. Blessed are they to whom people come in disaster. Blessed are they around whom children flock. You must overcome day by day the pain bearing qualities of obstinacy, arrogance, sneering, criticism. It is not that you do one great thing, but it is the sum of a million unconscious dispositions that makes you a giver of happiness. In old times it was thought right to love our friends and hate our enemies; in modern times we love our own denomination and hate heretics.

CATHOLICS HATE PROTESTANTS

and Protestants hate Catholics. Now, it is my business, as a Protestant Christian minister, to speak the truth, but it is my duty to try to speak it without offence. I remember when, if a Calvinist caught an Armenian in his church, he thought it his time to give Armenianism a hit. When the victim had a chance he hit back. Two doctrines when they met each other were not unlike two dogs. There was a rising of backs and a growling of mouths, and anything but amiability in the eyes. For a thousand years we have tried to bombard men into love and faith.

WHAT LUCK?

When will Christians feel that they should praise what is good in each other and let the rest go? As in religion so in civil affairs. In business and politics Christian men should try to please one another, and not irritate and hurt. When we examine men for church membership we ask them if they will leave off sin; if they have faith; if they will maintain virtue, but how seldom do we question them as to beneficence of disposition! How seldom do we look to see if parents are more loving to children; whether companions are more mellow and richer hearted; whether, after professing Christ, men are more attractive! I have known genial men to after joining the Church. You can never make a camelia worth as much as a rose. It is perfect, but the rose fills the room with fragrance. No heart should be a camelia heart, but a rose heart. Are there not fathers here whose good nature does not dawn till after breakfast; mothers who find fault with everything till they have had their cup of tea? Are there not feuds cherished and wounds kept open in many households? It is not enough if you are just and honest. Are you every day making others happy? I do not think that the angels stand like wax candles. I think of angels as full of gayety and fantasie, and burning all over with joy and gladness, and can we join them with our sordid natures? Therefore let every one please his neighbor for his good to edification.

BECOME CRUSTACEOUS

A Hard-Shell Sermon!
DELIVERED DOWN IN ARKANSAS.

TEXT—"And when they riz up early in the morning, behold they was all dead corpusses."

My brethern and sistering, I will preach unto you this day, wind and weather permittin, from the thirty-seventh chapter uv Isaih, thirty-sixth verse, which reads as follows:

"An the destroyin angel smote in the camp uv the Syrenians, a hundred and fourscore an five thousing men—and when they riz up early in the morning, behold they was all dead corpusses."

An thus it is my beloved friends and friendly hearers, that the destroyin angel stalks abroad with his big meat axe ready to send us to the boneyard before we can rise up in the mornin an set down to breakfast. And it is said, my frens, that roses is red and violets is blue, but it's no use tryin to honeyfugle round the angel Gabriel when he toots his horn for you to hand in your checks and perepare to git under dirt, for you'll hev to hunt fur your hole then, sartin.

"An when they riz up early in the mornin behold they was all dead corpusses."

My wretched brethering and sistering, as I was ridin along the road, I seen a man sittin on the top uv his fense, with a double barreled shot gun on his lap and a sweatin and fannin uv hisself with an old straw hat, and a cussin uv the Fourth of July, an North America, an the Constitution, an the Supreme Court, an the President uv the United States, and the bird uv liberty, and the Freedmun's Buro, and the fifteenth amendment; and when I heerd that man a cussin, an seen that big shot gun, thinks I to myself, in the words uv the text:

"An when they riz up early in the mornin, behold they was all dead corpusses."

An I told roan to wo, and ses I, my ungodly fren, if you swear in that ar way you'll furever and eternally ruinate your eternal soul, and never git a nibble when you go a fishin.

An ses he: "You go to——; you durned ole, mishapen, misbegotten mistake uv creation; ef you had to git the grass out uv a cotton crap with free niggers, you'd git on a stump an cuss yourself out uv your darn'd ole yaller hide, an go to——fur your health."

Sez I, "My errin fren, it cuts me to the marrer to see you strugglin in the bondige uv sin." An ses he: "My pumpkin-faced customer, ef you can clime that tall red oak thar an see anything in this ere miserable land but bondage and crab grass, you kin take my ole hat fur a hen's nest."

An ses I: "My hard swearin fren, you'll never register your name in the book uv eternal life."

An ses he: "I went to town last week to register, but I couldn't git site uv the book for the infernal greasy niggers."

"Oh, mistaken human," sez I, "tremble fur yer future, for you are on the road a lendin to perdishon."

An sez he: "You're a cussed ole liar, for I'm on the road a leadin to Benton.

I hove a sigh, and sez I, in the language uv my text:

"An when they rix up early in the mornin, behold they was all dead corpusses."

And he said, "Let 'em rise an the devil take 'em all."

"Oh, sufferin feller-critter," sez I, "ef you would but sue for grace ye mite come an jine the hevingly quire, an be mancipated from the shakkles uv sin and 'scape everlastin perdishun!" And he cocked up his gun an sez he, "I had twenty-six likely niggers mancipated on my hands, an ef you open your jawbone bout mancipation to me again I'll make buzzard vittles out'n yer infernal ole carcass before——could scortch a nat."

My constant frens an hearers, when I seen that wicked man cocking uv his gun, I began to feel mighty jubus, and the words uv my text smote upon my ear;

"And when they riz up early in the mornin, behold they was all dead corpusses."

But, my christian hearers, I felt called upon to try my hand once more on this poor obgurit man, an sez I again, "my blasphemous fren, you are continually and eternally dammed of you don't immejitly get down off that ar fence, and go to some sequested spot an pray for your soul's redemption."

An sure nuff he did jump down off the fence, but he didn't hunt no sequested spot, my ungodly hearers; he put that old shot gun close up to my reverend head, and sez he: "I have hern that a squatter is the next thing to a confiscator, an ef that's your business in this here parts you had better begin to grow mighty small an butifully less." An my hearers it looked to me as ef a drove of mules could have trotted down the barrel uv that ole shot gun, an I put spurs to my old roan and I galloped through the wilderness, and thinks I, my friends, ef that ar man don't pull up soon he'll get to the end uv his rope an take up his abode whar the worm dieth not an the fire is not squilched, for in the language uv my text, with a slight variation:

"An when he riz up early in the mornin, behold he will be a dead corps.

An sure nuff three days after he was tuck up and tried by a military commission an hung for killin a nigger. An my listnin frens an hearers when I seed him standin on the great immensity uv space, between wind and weather, a kickin at the fourth district, sez I, in the language of the inspired himn:

"One more sinner dead and gone,
A silver spade to dig his grave,
A golden chain to let him down,
A bugle horn to blow him on."

"An when they riz up early in the mornin, behold they was all dead corpusses."

The brethren will sing the concludin' himn while the deacons hand round the hat for the nickels.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, January 17.—Senate. Mr. Casserly, of California, moved to refer the President's message regarding Southern outrages to the Judiciary committee.

Mr. Wilson moved its reference to a select committee.

An angry debate took place on the question of reference.

Mr. Morton offered a resolution providing for the appointment of a select committee of five members to which shall be referred the documents and papers recently laid before the Senate by the President in reference to the condition of the Southern States, such committee to have the power to employ a clerk and stenographer, and to send for persons and papers; to administer oaths and investigate the matters referred to in the said documents and papers, and the truth or falsity of the crimes and outrages of a political character alleged to have been committed in the Southern States.

A bitter debate commenced on this resolution, and will be continued to-morrow. The question returns upon the issue of whether the documents and papers shall be referred to a select or a Judiciary committee. It is noticed that the Southern Senators, whose terms expire on the 4th of March next, are especially bitter.

Mr. Warner, of Alabama, hoped a special committee would be appointed, by whom some remedy would be devised for the insecurity of life and property and the wholesale denial of the rights of citizenship. He reminded the Senate that upon the announcement in the Senate, about a year and a half ago, of the death of Mr. Hinds, a member of Congress from Arkansas, who was assassinted for his political opinion, he (Warner) had asserted that while the Government had shown its power to crush the rebellion, it had yet failed to protect its citizens. He defended himself from the charge of inconsistency. From the day he had put off the Federal uniform he had offered to the Southern people the olive branch of peace, and had said to them upon the rostrum in Alabama, and here upon his responsibility as a Senator, that he was willing and anxious to forgive the past; that as a Federal soldier he had fought only for the Union and the future peace of his country. * * * * *

While he was for amnesty for the rebelion he was for the halter for the murderers of to-day, and he would be pained to learn that this is a question of party ascendency; that there is a party in this country which depends for its ascendency upon organized bands of ku klux assassins. * * * He hoped that there are no parties or partizans here who fear that they are to suffer by an investigation. If his (Mr. Warner's) party shall suffer from it let it suffer. * * He was convinced that there is a great body of men in the South opposed to his party who oppose and denounce ku klux outrages; many had denounced them to him privately, but such is the terror in certain localities that they dare not do it publicly! He had men who occupied seats in Congress before the war, men of the Democratic party, and who now belong to it, to tell him privately that the newspaper Editors and other leaders who are inflaming the passions of the people and producing this violence throughout the State are fools; but they lack the moral courage to say it publicly. * * *

The indications are in favor of a week's debate over the reference of the documents and papers. The outrages detailed in them are in reports of military commanders, extending four or five years back, and very few of recent date. They include those of Sickles and Meade, when they commanded in the South. The most recent ones are from Governor Holden, of North Carolina, and the Governor of Florida. In Holden's report he mentions it as "a fact which will surprise many who do not know to the contrary, that Andrew Johnson is the head of the Ku-Klux."

CROPS.

Extracts from the Address of James R. Thigpen, Esq., of the Reconstructed Farmer.

First as to how to pitch the crop.

Never overcrop by planting too much, especially if the land is too poor to pay the expense of cultivation; for you not only tax the better portion, but are thrown back in your operations, and the result; a hard year's work, short crop, and the lands injured by bad cultivation.

To have that order necessary to work easily improve your farm, keep your teams and utensils in good order, your laborers satisfied, and give you time for composting, deep-plowing and draining thoroughly, you must plant no more than you can cultivate to advantage.

In laying out the farm, set apart for grain land enough for the production of all home supplies in abundance.

I am one of those who believe in producing all articles of prime necessity at home. There is no real independence or profit in any other system of farming. One barrel of corn raised at home is nearly the equivalent of two purchased, all things considered.

When we shall raise a sufficiency of grain and grasses, we will hear less complaint that we cannot raise stock profitably and successfully.

A letter to the Whig from Patrick county gives the following particulars of an atrocious assault on an aged couple residing in that county. On the 20th ult., an old man named Joseph Brein, upwards of 90 years of age, was attacked about dark by two unknown white men, who demanded his money. Upon the refusal of the old man to comply, he was knocked down with a large club, and afterwards a gun stock was broken over his head, fracturing his skull. They attempted to shoot him, but the gun missed fire. The scoundrels then assaulted and seriously injured the old man's wife, who is about 90 years old. Another lady, the daughter of the aged couple, who came to the rescue, was knocked down, with her skull fractured and one arm broken. All three of them are in a very critical condition. The robbers fled without booty.

The Chatham Tribune says a notorious negro named Poss White, one of the most ignorant, disgusting, and abandoned wretches that could be found in the country, has been appointed Postmaster at Pittsylvania Courthouse, through the influence of the carpet-bag Congressman Stowell; and that the penalty of his official bond has been reduced from four thousand dollars to fifteen hundred dollars, to enable him to give the requisite security. To complete the infamous transaction, two persons, but little better than White, have entered as his security, notwithstanding it is notorious that both of them are not worth three hundred dollars, and every dollar's worth of their property is exempt from levy by the laws of the State, so that their names as security would be wholly worthless.

Seven sins to be accounted for that were left out of the book, viz:

1. Refusing to take your own county paper.
2. Taking a paper and refusing to pay for it.
3. Not advertising.
4. Getting married and forgetting to hand in the notice along with a dollar "william" to the printer.
5. Asking newspapers to publish matter that is for your own benefit without remuneration.
6. Reading copy on a compositor's case.
7. Never paying your subscription till the publisher goes to the trouble of asking for it.

Hillsborough Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 25. 1871.

☞ A young fellow in New York made seven attempts at suicide and at last got married.

☞ The question for a man for office now is not is he an able man but "how much can he carry a day?"

☞ The young King of Greece plays croquet in the sunshine till it makes the grease come. Good exercise.

☞ Whiskey and water is a sort of a pet "dog" with the Virginia legislature. They keep it before them at their seats with a little bark in it.

☞ An old lady in Lynchburg (Va.) made a pair of stockings last fifteen years by merely knitting feet to them every winter and legs every other winter.

☞ Some years ago we respectfully suggested a sinker to the coat tail of a certain legislator. Some few legislators in Raleigh are getting mighty talky now!

☞ Capt. Wm. H. Green, of the North Carolina Road, was married on the 19th by the Rev. Dr. Smedes of Raleigh to Miss Fannie Atkinson of Company Shops.

☞ The Senate judiciary committee in their report on the Georgia Senators have decided that Miller is ineligible because of having been a surgeon in the rebel army. Reckon Miller would like to amputate those men.

☞ The Journal says a stage actor named Sherrick insulted the other night a Norfolk audience by his low buffoonery and drunken ribaldry on the stage. Every lady in the house got up and left. The brute was drunk.

☞ A young lady of native birth who has been north and won an enviable reputation as a cantatrice has returned to Richmond. The Enquirer hopes she may be governed by good sense for the future and remain at home with her parents.

☞ Page Palmister of the Atlantic Hotel in Norfolk lately played a billiard match with E. T. Wright a painter of that city. Palmer gave Wright 100 points in 500, and beat him 57 points. The parties are not satisfied and will play a game next Monday for a prize of $200.

CLOSE OF 2ND VOLUME—New Series.

A LITTLE POLITICAL CHAT, BY WAY OF A GLANCE AT THE TIMES.

The last number of the RECORDER completed a year since the senior became associate Editor, and although we have used but very little effort to increase the circulation of the paper, it gives us pleasure to announce that our subscription list is almost double that with which we commenced.

In closing up the year we desire to indulge a little in political retrospection by way of a glance at the "situation":

In our greeting to the patrons of this journal we distinctly announced our purpose to avoid converting this paper into a partizan political hack, and that it stood

"Pledg'd to no party's arbitrary sway," but would be left FREE to think and speak for itself, in politics and everything else, and would

"Range where Right and Duty pointed the way."

There was no political party founded upon defined political principles—National or State—for us to join. There is none now. The old parties played out with the war, and as regards politics or political parties we have been awaiting developements.

But just here, perhaps some one walls up the white of his eyes and calls our attention to the Radical and Conservative parties. Hold your horses, sir, and we'll discourse you on these parties, so-called.

We opposed the Reconstruction measures of Congress—preferred to remain out of the Union rather than eat so much dirt, but a very large majority of the people of North Carolina sanctioned these measures and they became part of the organic law. This organic law we have some half dozen Provost-marshal oaths sticking in our throat to support—and there is no alternative left us to oppose them publicly, privately or secretly, without base perjury. The State having been wheeled back into the Union upon the terms of Congress, we acquiesced—with a protest. The party that wheeled her into the Union got the possession of power to run the State Government. This power they corruptly abused, and for this abuse many of us united upon the great principle of MORAL honesty to hurl from power. We have acted with the opposition. Thrice we tried to hurl them from power, and thrice we sustained a Waterloo defeat. What was to be done?—What could be done? Some of the opposition seem to have resorted to ku kluxing, but we condemned these lawless acts as outrages against both God and man, and as not only calculated to un-reconstruct the State (by Congress) but to provoke the wrath and vengeance of heaven; (and for this we seem to have incurred the displeasure of some who ought to have sustained us.) In our opinion the platform of the Virginia Conservative party was a platform that would win the race in North Carolina, and we unfurled our banner with that platform on it.—Many disliked it—it was too "harmonizing"—it wasn't extreme enough—it poured oil on the troubled waters—they believed in lashing the wild waves of party strife and rancor by damning every man that voted for reconstruction as a rascal and rogue unfit to stand on the same platform with them. Their "extreme" platform had—as above stated—been tried again and again, and again and again it went under. Tho' our policy didn't suit many of them—nevertheless we pressed it. After awhile, lo! and behold! the Conservative members of the last Legislature substantially endorsed the Virginia Conservative policy—and this policy WON last August.—Without it the Conservative party of North Carolina would have been badly beaten.—He who doubts it might as well doubt that two and two make four. But the fellows who favored "dashing the sweet milk of concord into hell," also favored an impression that the Recorder "sympathised" with the Radical party! Ha, ha!—the charge amuses us. These fellows profess to endorse the platform of the Conservatives of the last Legislature, which platform runs a little further into negro equality and Radicalism than we are willing to go. They seem not to know or to forget the meaning of the abused word "conservative." But the charge is only the crack of the "party whip" in the hands of demagogues who aspire to lead us as the master leads his blind donkey—demagogues who became offended because, forsooth, they could not use us as the potter uses clay, nor make us dance or mark time to their music.

We profess to have no "prophetic vision"—but we are vain enough to indulge the opinion that had the counsels of the Recorder been heeded, the ku klux war last summer would have been avoided, and with it a mint of money to be paid by the people as a result of this war. Nor would Congress be now debating a proposition to un-reconstruct North Carolina—nor would Gov. Vance be meeting with difficulties in taking his seat in the U. States senate—nor would the country be without a general amnesty law. In support of this we re-produce the following editoral extract from this paper of May 25th, 1870:

"Old things have passed away and all things become new. And the election this summer will argue nothing of a return to the "old times as they used to be;" for those times have passed forever. And the politicians themselves know it, unless they be the veriest dumps. But the mischief is these same politicians know another thing and they play on it too—they know the deep-rooted prejudices of our people against the men that whipped them, and with cunning tongues they tickle their prejudices even at the expense of starving their prosperity. Noise is a powerful element. An old writer says: few men would have courage for either a battle or a wedding if it were not for the din of the trumpets and the joy bells. So is the action of two thirds of our people in a political campaign determined by noise on the stump.

We must scratch our heads and think.
Who says we may vote? Congress.
Who says we shant vote? Congress.
Who says we may pass laws? Congress.
Who says we shant pass laws? Congress.
Who reconstructed Georgia? Congress.
Who unreconstructed Georgia? Congress.
Take care then. Vote for no men who siz like fried meat whenever a party issue is kindled. Vote for no men who are not known to be in favor of healing the breach between the two sections. Vote for no men who have not been and are not now fearless and unwavering advocates of law and order against the prevalence of mobbism and midnight whipping-posts. If you do, you'll repent it. If you do, you'll get ashes where you ought to gather fruit. If you do, you'll get dry thunder where you ought to have rain. "Remember Georgia.

Doubtless there were those who regarded these sentiments of warning as idle talk. But permit us to say the 'signs of the times' augured "breakers ahead"—and they have come! All of which might have been avoided had the humble admonitions of this journal been heeded.

A NEW RAIL ROAD

The Petersburg Courier, says it is now on foot to organize a new rail road to be run from Petersburg to Greensboro', N. C.—The route runs via Dinwiddie C. H., Boydton, Clarksville, Va., Roxborough, N. C. and through Caswell and Alamance. The Courier understands that a subscription of $300,000 from two Virginia counties can be relied upon for the proposed Road.

COURT OF IMPEACHMENT.

The Senate organized itself into a Court of Impeachment of Gov. Holden on 23rd inst. Besides the two Houses of the Legislature, Hon. Wm. A. Graham, Hon. T. Bragg and Hon. A. S. Merrimon, will conduct the prosecution. Gov. Holden has retained Hon. W. N. H. Smith, of Norfolk, Va., (formerly of this State and a gentleman of profound legal lore,) Mr. Nat. Boyden, Dick Badger. Ed. Conigland and (last though not least,) J. M. McCorkle.

[Where' s Butler and Morton, who were announced in the papers?]

☞ The Congressional Committee for investigating Ku Klux outrages in the South is in session. Joseph W. Holden is the first witness called to the stand.

THE LEGISLATURE

Is chalking out a good deal of business—most of which is without general interest—but giving the finishing stroke to very little. Among the bills presented we notice one to suppress secret political societies, which bill was tabled. We have all along felt satisfied that Public opinion was the best preventive of such societies and the most effectual way of putting down midnight outrages, but for trying to educate the public mind against these societies and their lawless acts, we have been complained of.

A resolution authorizing Gov. Caldwell to offer a reward of $5000 for M. S. Littlefield passed. It seems Gov. C. sent a special messenger to Florida after the said Littlefield, but the Governor of that State refused to give him up.

Among the best bills now before the legislature is the resolution calling on the Governor for the names of "detectives" so called or "spies," the amount of money paid them and what service they rendered. We feel curious to know who these spies are and to warn farmers to have an eye on their sheep when one of them comes about.

Another important bill is that which regulates and fixes the salaries and fees of County officers. But care should be taken not to reduce the fees so low as to cause good officers to decline their offices. We will publish the bill when it passes.

There is another sensible bill before the Legislature; we allude to the bill abolishing Gen. Canby's 'dem-phoolishness' of requiring all the names of candidates for office to be printed or written on one piece of paper and voted, and which system our radical legislature—believing it intended to secure the undivided negro vote—adopted. We hope the thing will be changed, as such for the convenience of printers as the people and old-fashion fair-dealing.

On 23rd. Mr. Brown, senator from Caswell, moved a suspension of the rules and put a bill through in favor of the Sheriff of Caswell, one of the best officers in North Carolina.

In the House, same date, Col. E. B. Withers' bill to extend the time of registering Grants, Deeds, &c., passed its several readings.

From the Bildical Recorder.

IMPUDENCE REBUKED.

President Smith has written the following to a Catholic Priest:

REV. BLANK—Dear Sir: Your letter demanding a free pass over our road is at hand. While I am disposed to treat all alike, and have not in any way treated you differently from other Rev. gentlemen, I must say your letter is the coolest piece of impudence I have ever received from any clergyman of any denomination.

My dear sir, you must recollect that the Pope has not the possession of this road yet, and while I am simply a poor Iron-Side Baptist, I cannot be intimidated by one of the Pope's disciples. Therefore, my dear sir, I shall refuse positively to comply with your demand and will defy your excommunication. Don't tell the Pope this!

Yours truly

W. A. SMITH.

RICHMOND.

From the Whig, Enquirer, Dispatch, and State Journal, we take the following Richmond news:

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watkins on the boards last week.

The convicts are planting trees in the Capitol Square.

Rev. Dr. Read of the United Presbyterian church is dead.

Haxall, Crenshaw & Co. shipped 2400 barrels of flour to Brazil last Friday.

Miss Van Lew, the postmistress of the city, wears "No. ones and a half."

F. W. Mahood of the House of Delegates married to Miss Gertrude Lee.

Mrs. Fitzwilson and Mrs. Stinton are among the leaders of St. John's Choir.

William Barrett, a retired tobacco merchant in Richmond, was burnt to death last Friday in his dressing gown.

The sister of EDGAR ALLEN POE has been wandering from place to place for some time, entirely destitute. She is residing in Richmond, willing and anxious to obtain a living by the labor of her hands as a housekeeper, etc. She is 65.

A Mr. Page, life insurance man, lately dunned the Hon. Mr. Wentworth, rad, as he sat in the House, (cracking goobers,) and the Hon. Mr. Wentworth denied the account; whereat Mr. Page hit the Hon. Mr. Wentworth a pop between the eyes that brought down the Speaker's gavel.

NORFOLK.

We extract from the Virginian, and Journal:

Rock fish in Norfolk are two dollars apiece.

Value of real estate in Norfolk over 8 million dollars.

A negro girl near Norfolk goes to sleep and remains in a lethargic state for eight days at a time.

Among the besieged American residents in Paris are Mr., Mrs. and Miss Schliecker of Norfolk.

Rev. Tiberius Jones has been called to the First Baptist Church in Nashville at a salary of four thousand dollars.

S. R. Borum of the TIP TOP—the best liquor House in the South—heads an advertisement in the JOURNAL: "Where there is honey there will be bees." Our friend Borum has been an apiarist in his days and a bee wont leave him now! till it's got a quart on the wing!

PETERSBURG.

We cull the following from the Index, and Courier:

A prize fight to come off near the city.

Several boys were found bathing last Saturday the 14th in a branch near the Water Works.

Since the organization of the Relief Society in January the President and other members have visited five hundred and twenty-six indigent families in Petersburg.

A negro woman in Petersburg found a negro girl in her house stealing things and she collared the thief and started with her to jail, but on the way the girl asked her to whip her, so she hauled her over and hitting her a thousand! turned her loose.

DANVILLE.

We take the following from the Times, and Register:

McCULLY is hard to beat as a cookist.

A yankee has had the frames made north for a tobacco factory out on hospital hill.

Old Wood is all right. A better thorough Mississippi steamboat rebel never stewed nor steamed a better snack.

JERRY NICHOLAS is handsome in person and handsome in establishment and if he don't give you the full worth of your money just draw on us for the balance.

Col. Voss wants books to send to the lunatics at Williamsburg. Mark to Voss, Gipson & Co. at Danville and the Colonel will send them on. Such a gift will never make you any poorer.

Bouldin of the Times climbed a persimmon tree the other day after persimmons. While he was in the top eating a Norf Karliny man come along and hauled out a pistol on him. You see the tar-heel was mad because Bouldin was up there! He come down that tree like a 'possum.

GREENSBORO.

Robert M. Sloan has returned to Greensboro after an absence in Memphis.

Our good old friend, the PATRIOT, is still in its prime, ably conducted by Duffy, the Editor, and Bob Albright, the first-rate Local.

The oldest Druggist in the State and the best is here: James R. Callum.

There are more good looking dwelling houses and good looking women in them than there are good looking stores and good looking merchants in them. That's so.

The moneyed men of Greensboro have established a citizens bank.

CHARLOTTE.

We take the following news from the Democrat.

Cotton 13 a 13½.

Two daily trains now run north and south from Charlotte.

Charlotte has a Public Square. It embraces the whole town—Eh?

The new bank is to be called the "Merchants and Farmers National Bank of Charlotte, N. C." It will be in operation in a few weeks.

The Democrat believes Vance will "get in."

NEWBERN.

The following we take from the Commerce, and Republican:

The corn bag sewers are on a strike and demand double wages.

A tailor on South Front Street advertises on his sign that he 'dies in short notice.'

The foundry formerly occupied by R. N. Taylor has been put in operation by James Maglenn.

Professor Lamm delights the Newbernians with his musical entertainments.

An appropriation is talked of in Congress for a Public Building in Newbern to contain the United States District Court, the Custom House and the Post Office.

CHAPEL HILL.

Dr. Easely of Chapel Hill has written a long treatise on "Hydrophobia—what is it? &c. &c." to the Halifax (Va.) Record which the editor promises soon to publish.

The trustees of the University meet on Wednesday (to-day.) We learn that the debt of the University is about $60,000. There is a mortgage on it of $60.000. And a suit is now pending for about ten thousand brought by State National Bank. Five thousand acres of land belonging to the University and lying in Buncombe county are held as part of the mortgage by the estate of Gov. Swain. Miss Mildred Cameron and others hold the mortgage. The suit brought by the Nat. Bank will soon have a decision rendered by Judge Bond in the Federal Court. We understand Mr. Pool—the President, offers to give a thousand dollars towards paying off this debt.

☞ JAMES Y. WHITTED of this place wants a hundred thousand Tobacco Boxes right off.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21—The Senate committee to investigate the condition of affairs at the South, of which Gov. Senator Scott of Pennsylvania is chairman, proposes to go to work in a few days. They will subpœna the prominent men in the South who are supposed to be cognizant of the alleged outrages recently committed, and among them will be Gov. Holden. (Radical) of North Carolina and Gov. Scott (Rad.) of South Carolina and Gov. Davis (Rad.) of Texas. The committee intend to report as soon as possible before the present session closes.

In the mass of documents from Gov. Holden, recently submitted by the President to the Senate, is a letter from Col. Hunt, who, in July, 1870, commanded the district of North Carolina. He writes from Rhode Island January 2nd. 1871, answering an enquiry about murders and other violence committed by disloyal organizations for political purposes, that he heard of none such happening in the State while he was there. Of those which occurred previous to his taking command, that which created the most excitement was the murder of State Senator Stevens in Caswell county. He adds that the evidence of the existence of such organizations in both political parties was produced. Nearly all the cases inquired into proved, however, that other than political purposes were effected through the facilities afforded by these organizations, whose machinery was used to punish theft, burglaries, insults to women, and other offences in no way connected with politics. In fine, their principal business seemed to be to do the work usually performed by "regulators" and vigilance committees. These crimes were bold enough in themselves, but in the bitterness of party feeling they were generally exaggerated and misrepresented, and attributed to the political parties as such. To what extent murders and outrages were committed for political purposes, I am not in a position to state, for when the Legislature passed laws to punish the members of secret organizations, they were to a great extent, if not wholly, dissolved, and this was before I assumed the command of the district.

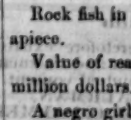
JAMES M. NEAL & CO., Proprietors.

A happy, prosperous New Year to all of you! We beg to call your attention to the fact that we have since last season added to our Warehouse a Brick addition of hundred and twenty ft. making our House one of the largest in our town, and the only Brick Warehouse here; this has been with an eye to better facilitate the unloading and weighing of Tobacco.

In addition to this, looking to the comfort of Planters who occasionally have to encounter all kinds of weather when they market their Tobacco, we have fitted up our CAMP House (which by the way is the largest in our place,) with Beds & Bedding which is kept cleanly at all times. We also have a Cooking Stove and cook to render you facilities in that line. We also have a fine, Well of Water, in our yard, surrounded by 50 good stables, most of which have locks and keys, and last but not least the best Auctioneer in the State and the good will of all the buyers.

NOTICE.



I WILL receive next week a new supply of Shoe findings, complete from a paper of Sprigs to a french calf skin. A full stock of Miles Shoes, laced and buttoned gaiters, Morocco Boots, &c.

Also a new lot of gent's Boots good, the best Boots for $5,00 ever offered in this market.

All these goods I will sell for Cash or Barter, otherwise I will not sell at all. I start my business strictly on the Cash system, and will adhere to it, or keep the goods. No one excepted I am talking to everybody. Will change the prices of all goods on hand, to the lowest cash figures.

And will make it to the interest of buyers to give me a call expect to make a living on a few lines of goods which if I sell on time I will not be able to replace. C. M. PARKS.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Introducing the Months.

From an English translation of the "Shepherd's Kalendar" published at Paris in 1497, we take the following specimens. The style is curious and interesting.

Later in the century the "Shepherd's Kalendar" was published at Paris, of which an English translation appeared in 1497. The style may be judged from the following specimens:

"Saturne is kyest and coldest, being full old,
And Mars with his bluddy swerde ever ready to kyll
Sol and Luna is half good and half ill."

Each month is introduced with a fragment or verse, thus:

"Called I am Januyere the colde,
In Christmas season good fyre I love,
Yonge Jesu, that sometime Judas solde,
In me was circumcised for man's behove,
Three kings sought the sonne of God above;
They kneeled downe, and dyd him homage, with love
To God their Lorde that is man's own brother."

The Invention of Printing.

John Faust, a goldsmith of Mentz, was one of the three artists considered as the inventors of printing. In 1462 he carried a number of Bibles to Paris—the discovery of the art was not then known in France. The Parisians were excited against him and the red ink with which the Bibles were embellished was said to be his blood. He was thrown into prison as a magician and as being in league with the devil, and most probably would have been put to death but that he made known his discovery of the art. This circumstance gave rise to the tradition of "Type Devil and Doctor Faustus."

Statistics of the Race.

From the New York Observer Year Book we take the following statistics:

There are 1,389 millions of people on the earth. Of these 380,000,000 are the Caucasian race; 580,000,000 the Mongolian; 200,000,000, the Ethiopian; 229,000,000 the Malay; and 1,000,000 the American Indian. They speak three thousand languages and possess one thousand different religions.

There is a death every second.

Married people live longer than single ones. And a tall man outlives a short one.

Sixty-five out of every thousand persons marry. June and December are the marrying months.

Children born in spring are stronger than the rest. Births and deaths occur chiefly at night.

A Good Joke on the Senior.

We slip the following in unbeknown to the senior. (We take the cars to-night.) The senior is no singist. His voice is like that of a long country lane that has no turn to it. Several years ago he attended a camp town meeting over in South Carolina and occupied the last seat but one in the church. A large built double fisted pump maker sat behind him. The preacher preached a mighty solemn sermon all about hell fire and the lake that burneth forever and there was an awful feeling and solemnity in the congregation. When the preacher gave out the last hymn he "lined it" and requested everybody in the congregation to stand up and sing it with spirit and understanding. The senior stood up with the rest and cleared his throat determined to "do his part" in the exercises or split his throat one. When the hymn was raised the senior opened! He had pitched his voice too high and it roared through the old country church like the monotonous tones of a cracked stage horn. Everybody turned around and looked towards the senior! and the senior turned around and looked at the pump-maker! After church the pump-maker with a big stick enquired for the senior at his hotel and was told that he had just left on the twelve o'clock stage for North Carolina. This is a fact.

Our Sunday.

Pitty-patty go the little feet, ruffle rustle, sweep the charming women, trip and strut prance the adorable young men, and step and stumble shuffle along the "old folks" all going to church.

What for? Why what a question!

To church is the very best place we poor sinners can go this beautiful day. It is the quiet harbor where we sail our vessels in and take refuge from the storms of sin that have rocked us during the past week. God only knows how many sin tossed souls have cast their anchor to-day and laid themselves in the smooth waters of a Sunday-go-to-meeting repentance. To-morrow we start out to sea again and it may be possible we will steer clear of some of the shoals we run against last week. Heaven grant it.

But there is no day so beautiful as a pretty Sunday. It leads the poorest wretch of us back to the old church at home. Ah the good old Past! Like a beautiful dream it hovers 'round us and we catch at it—and it's gone. We see the old church now. There's where the choir sat; right up in front. A bench full of old gentlemen in big flat turndown collars who sung by a tuning fork and we fancy the tall spare leader now blowing his nasals with a kersnoot that sounds all over the church before he "pitched" the tune. Then such a good old fashioned singing as they would have! Big fat old ladies just a leaning back to it! with their mouths full open and perchance the big tears streaming down their cheeks. While we little fellows all sat with our mothers and were not allowed even so much as to brush a fly from our face.

There are graveyards and cedars and weeping willows between us now and then. The very old bell that so oft has rung us merrily to the school is now rusting in solid shot on some old fought battle-field. The beautiful matrons and grey headed sires that taught us the story of Joseph and of Samuel are now a heap of ashes in the old graveyard at home. Sometime in dreams at night we see them and they look just like they did when we told them good-bye and turned our back upon the old home. It may be they visit us when asleep. Who knows?

The day is just as pretty now and the beautiful heavens as bright. But it don't seem that people spend it like they used to. They go to church, go to sleep, go to walk, go to ride, go to work, go to visit, go anywhere and everywhere to have a good time and then—pray and read and sing a little afterward.

These are the educated world. Are they much better than that uneducated set even in our own midst who go a fishing or a frolicking, and never pretend to go to church at all? Or than the poor woman who sews all night long Saturday night on a dress for my lady to take communion in to-morrow? Or than the two little ragged barefooted boys who are throwing rocks or digging bait to-day while young Master Harry takes his ten cents to Sunday school to throw in for the heathen off in a foreign land!

Well. Maybe it is the way this gay and festive world of ours has to work. At any rate the sunshine is too soft and the sky too unclouded to harbor an ill natured thought of this old world to-day.

DEAD.—We are pained to learn that Mr. J. GARLAND JEFFREYS died at his residence near Milton, N. C., Saturday night before last. He was buried at the Red House, where he was born, (the homestead of his father.) Few men carried a better heart than the deceased, and few men had more friends.

SMOKE-HOUSE ROBBERY.

The Smoke-house of Mr. Sam. Brandon, near Barksdale's depot, in Halifax, Va., was robbed of 200 lbs bacon a few nights ago. Mr. Brandon was absent, but the "dead wood" has been taken on the thief.

HILLSBORO RECORDER.

We owe an apology to the Hillsboro Recorder for copying an attack upon the political course of that paper, made by a very worthy cotemporary. This was done by the night Editor, in the hurry of compiling "State News," without sufficient thought as to the character of the article in question.

We desire to be understood as doing this as a matter of simple justice to that paper, and not from any regard to the ridiculous attempt at witticism in which reference is made to the Journal. We have no desire to attack our cotemporaries, but if compelled to do so, we will not seek shelter behind other papers.

It would be uncandid in us not to say that we differ widely from the political sentiments promulgated by the Recorder, as our columns plainly manifest. We will endorse the Editor as a gallant soldier and gentleman, but regard him as rather an uncertain political teacher. Knowing him to be honest, zealous and indefatigable, we wish that his abilities and influence were directed to more substantial ends.—Wilmington Journal.

We thank the JOURNAL for an amende so fair and brave and honorable. It was no more than we expected from its Editor who was a soldier in the field and is still a soldier out of it with honor as delicate as that of a woman.

As regards our politics we, the Junior, have very little of any sort. Just now we are after bread and meat.

Once we thought we were a Whig but before election time come we were fighting in Lee's army and forgot all about it.

Then we got out safe and thought we had a pretty good right to be considered a rebel. But we found so many men who had staid at home and never fought at all that were so much better rebels than we were that we gave that up!

Then we bought a bobtail coat, a slick beaver, and a neat little rattan stick, took a big mouthful of Provost oaths and concluded to try and come the reconstructed union man awhile. But the cockade-stay-at-homes were before us there! too. Actually some of them down on their knees taking sixteen oaths a second and a good portion of them already installed as Bankrupt officers and Magisters of the Peace.

Well.

We then went home determined to have a kind of peace politics of our own and to advocate living in peace with all the world and the rest of mankind and a small portion of the Equator besides. But lo and behold! The kuklux then "went for" us and swore we were a radical and posted us up with a man drawn on a board and a nice little necktie in the shape of a small sized rope embracing lovingly the oozle of his throat. While the league—the niggers—and the white trash—swore we were a kuklux and wanted to have us arrested!

That was a deuce of a fix for a fellow to be in. Wasn't it?

Well, we just determined to hold our position for LAW AND ORDER AND PEACE AND GOOD WILL and not care for what "people" said about us. To stand up for RIGHT against party and party dictation and to praise whom and what we pleased if we believed it proper, and to denounce whom and what we pleased if we thought it proper—and those that didn't like it might lump it. This is our politics yet! And now, my friends, you have the conclusion of the whole matter.

Married.

At Company Shops N. C. on the evening of the 19th inst, by the Rev. Dr. Smedes of Raleigh, Capt William H. Green to Miss Fannie Atkinson, both of Company Shops.

A CARD.

Hon. Josiah Turner, Jr., Editor of the Sentinel, uses the following language in an editorial of 19th January, 1871:

"Now the dividends declared by the North Carolina Railroad have not been fairly, squarely and honestly made. The mortgage bonds of the Company have been used, instead of money, to pay the indebtedness of the company, while the earnings of the road were applied to the dividends instead of the payment of debts."

Should I remain silent and not answer this portion of Mr. Turner's editorial it might cause the credit of the Company to be damaged, and put the Directors of this Company in a false position.

I will therefore proceed to make a statement of the number of bonds issued since the commencement of my administration. Amount of bonds paid off and cancelled. The amount of old debts paid that were not on the books and due before I took control of the road, and the amount of cash paid to the Trustee, Gov. Graham.

The total amount of bonds issued by this Company since the beginning of my administration has been $468,000

$240,000 of these bonds was issued to pay the Scrip Dividend declared by the administration of the Hon. Josiah Turner, Jr. then President of the N. C. R. R. Co. Take the $240,000 issued to pay Mr. Turner's Scrip Dividend from the total amount issued which as above stated, was $68,000
240,000

And it leaves $228,000

The amount of bonds bought and cancelled by this company since the commencement of my administration has been $326,000.00

The amount of old debts paid by me that was due by other administrations, and not on the books, was 167,493,07

The amount of cash paid to Gov. Graham, Trustee. 37,500,00

Making the total amount paid during my administration towards the debt of the Company $530,993,07

Amount of cash paid stockholders last fiscal year, 240,000,00

Amount of cash on hand, 150,000.00

Making a grand total of $920,993,07 of cash paid out for debts, dividends and on hand, besides paying all expenses of the road.

The public will see by this statement that I have paid $530,000 of the debt of the Company, and at the same time paid the stockholders $240,000 in cash dividends, and have at this time $150,000 on hand in cash; and that I have only issued $228,000 in bonds since my administration except what were issued to pay the Scrip Dividend declared by Mr. Turner's administration amounting to $240,000. The amount of cash left in the Treasury at the end of Mr. Turner's administration was Twenty Thousand, ninety-four dollars and fifty three cts. Not enough to pay a debt of twenty-one thousand dollars due by his administration to the Tredgar Iron Works for Iron. Therefore it will be seen that I have not paid debts out of the funds left in the Treasury by Mr. Turner.

The dividends declared by the Directors of this Company have been, as this statement from the books of the Company will show, 'fairly, squarely, and honestly made.' Hon. Josiah Turner's, Jr., say to the contrary notwithstanding.

Should any bondholder, Stockholder or member of the Legislature or Mr. Turner doubt this statement, the books of this Company are at their service at all times to satisfy themselves of the truth or falsity of this statement.

But I may be mistaken in what Mr. Turner means by, making dividends "fairly, squarely, and honestly." He paid his dividends in Scrip convertible into bonds which increased the debt of the Company $240,000. Does he consider this the way to pay dividends "fairly, squarely and honestly." If he does, I admit, according to his construction of "fairly, squarely and honestly," that we have not adopted his plan.

While I do not commit myself to any policy not dictated to me by the Stockholders of this Company, I am satisfied that with the assets and dividends of the N. C. R. R. Co. I could finish the North Western N. C. R. R. or the Western N. C. R. R. in three years, which would, when finished, add greatly to the income of the N. C. R. R. Company, and at the same time give untold value to the lands of Western North Carolina, and an out let to millions worth of her products now locked up for want of Rail Road transportation.

The only way, in my humble judgment, to consummate the great design of the people of Western North Carolina, is for her members of the Legislature and her leading and public spirited men, not to listen to the croakings of men who are always saying "we cannot finish this, and it is impossible to do that," but put their shoulders to the wheel, and say by the "eternal we can and we will do it."

Respectfully,

W. A. SMITH,
President N. C. R. R. Co.

We certify that the facts and figures of the above financial statement were taken from the books of this Company and are correct.

Cedar Grove Township.

Messrs Editors: Our old friend, Tommy K. Turner the "ironside baptist and South Kerliner dimmerkrat," formerly of Prospect Hill, now a denizen of this Township, having come to the conclusion in his maturer years that it is not good for a man to live "all by his lonesome self," was united with a buxom nice widow in the indissoluble bonds of "hymeneous" matrimony, on Sunday morning last.

May happiness and prosperity attend them and "little pledges of affection" occasionally (or semi-occasionally at least) spring up to cheer them on their journey through life.

You ought, Messrs Editors, run out, one of these days, to our metropolis, Cedar Grove, and see what a smashing big trade a little man like Tom Ellis is driving. Tom is no "sardine," sure. He is closing out, his full stock to make room for a large Spring stock. En passant it is a little strange how much cheaper Ellis bought his goods than some others. Ellis is "the man of the period" in these diggins. And I would say that Ellis and Pogue are the biggest little men in the county.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

PAIN KILLER
PERRY DAVIS' SON'S PROVIDENCE R. I.
1840 1870

Pain is supposed to be the lot of us poor mortals, as inevitable as death itself and liable at any time to come upon us. Therefore it is important that remedial agents should be at hand to be used on an emergency, when the seminal principle lodged in the system shall develope itself, and we feel the excruciating agonies of pain, or the depressing influence of disease. Such a remedial agent exists in the PAIN KILLER, whose fame has made the circuit of the globe. Amid the eternal ices of the polar regions or beneath the intolerable and burning sun of the tropics, its virtues are known and appreciated. Under all latitudes, from one extreme to the other, suffering humanity has found relief from many of its ills by its use. The wide and broad arena over which this medicine has spread, attests its value an potency. From a small beginning, the Pain Killer has pushed gradually along, making its own highway, solely by its virtues.

Such unexampled success and popularity has brought others into the field, who have attempted under similarity of name, to usurp the confidence of the people and turn it to their own selfishness and dishonesty, but their efforts have proved fruitless, while the Pain Killer is growing in public favor.

POETICAL

HAVE COURAGE, MY BOY, TO SAY NO.

You're starting, my boy, on life's journey,
Along the grand highway of life;
You'll meet with a thousand temptations,
Each city with evil is rife.

This world is a stage of excitement;
There's danger wherever you go;
But if you are tempted in weakness,
Have courage, my boy, to say No!

The bright ruby wine may be offered;
No matter how tempting it be,
From poison that stings like an adder,
My boy, have the courage to flee!

The billiard saloons are inviting
Deck'd out in their tinsel and show;
If you should be tempted to enter,
Think twice—then coolly say No.

In course, mind, for your safety,
When on the long journey begin;
Your trust in a Heavenly Father
Will keep you unspotted from sin.

Temptations will go on increasing,
As streams from a rivulet flow,
But if you'd be true to your manhood,
Have courage, my boy, to say No!

Spice.

A fine coat may cover a fool, but never conceals one.

People who advertise only once in three months forget that most folks can't remember anything longer than about seven days.

A little girl sent out to hunt eggs, came back unsuccessfully, complaining that "lots of hens were standing round doing nothing."

A Knoxville editor has put the editorial pastepot to a new use. He put tart with it the eye of an assailant who undertook to warm the editorial jacket.

A Chinaman who had his nose cut off during a little altercation in San Francisco, had it carefully packed and sent back home to show his friends one of the American customs.

CAN'T BEAR THEM—"I never could bear children," said a crusty old maid to Mrs. Partington. "Perhaps, if you could you would like them better," mildly replied the old lady.

A western paper noticed the opening of a new whiskey store, and the next day apologised for the brevity of its local columns, because "the reporter was ill." He had assisted at the opening.

A charming young lady of Council Bluffs surprised her mother, on returning from a dance, by saying that she enjoyed the "huggin set to music amazingly." She referred to waltzing.

In Crawford county, Iowa, they have a new kind of a man and wife trouble. A Mrs. Hunter has sued Sarah Moran for $3,000 for seducing her husband. Sarah is said to be worth several times that.

I have noticed one thing, that the most virtewous and diskreet folks we hav amoung us are those who have either no pashuns at at all, or very tame ones; it is a great deal easier tew be a good dove than a decent serpent.

At a wedding recently when the officiating priest asked the lady, "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" She dropped the prettiest curtesy, and, with a modesty which leat beauty an additional grace, replied, "If you please."

A young lady at a western temperance meeting said: Brethren and sisters, cider is a necessity to me, and I must have it. It is decided that we are not to drink cider. I shall eat apples and get some young man to squeeze me, for I cannot live without the juice of the apple.

The life of an editor is not always free from care. They have to stand this, up in Newman, Ga.: "Come and look, mother," said a little boy, "there goes an editor." "My son, you should not make sport of that poor man; you cannot tell to what extremity you may come."

The San Antonio postmaster recieved a letter lately "To my Mammy." It was not delivered till some weeks after, a small, fierce-looking old woman appeared at the post office window, saying, "Mister, have you got any letter there from my Johnny?" when he hit the mark at once.

A "Personal" in a New York daily a week ago, stated that "If John Smith, formerly of Philadelphia, will call at No. ——Blank street, he will hear something to his advantage." John called. There was about 250 of him, and he has been calling at the rate of 47 per day ever since the "personal" appeared.

The following lines are supposed to have been written by an editor who was insane, for certainly no sane man could dream anything so improbable:

I had a dream the other night,
When everything was still;
I fancied that each subscriber
Came up and paid his bill.

Joy wore a look of lunacy,
And smiles were found each eye,
And shouts were heard on the mountain top
That yelled, "How's that for high?"

A BOY'S COMPOSITION ON THE GOAT.—A goat is stronger than a pig, and gives milk. He looks at you—so does the doctor—but a goat has four legs. My goat butted dearest Tillinghast in a bad place, and a little calf wouldn't do so. A boy without a father is an orphan, and if he hain't got no mother he is two orphans. The goat don't give so much milk as a cow, but more than an ox. I saw an ox at a fair one day with a card tied to his left ear, and we went in on a family ticket. Mother picks geese in the summer, and the goat eats grass and jumps on a box. Some folks don't like goats; but as for me, give me a mule with a paint brush tail. The goat is a useful animal, but don't smell as sweet as nice bear's oil for the hair. If I had too much hair I would wear a wig, as old Capt. Peters does. I will sell my goat for $3, and go to the circus to see the elephant, which is bigger than five goats. Father is coming home to-morrow, and the baby has got the croup bad.

These Instruments have been before the Public for nearly 30 years, and upon their excellence alone attained an unparalleled pre-eminence which pronounces them unequalled. Their combines great power, sweetness and fine singularity, as well as great purity of intonation, and evenness throughout the entire scale. Their TOUCH
is pliant and elastic, and entirely free from the stiffness found in so many Pianos. In WORKMANSHIP
they are unexcelled, using none but the very best seasoned material, the large capital employed in our business enabling us to keep continually an immense stock of lumber, &c. on hand.
All our Square Pianos have our New Improved Overstrung scale and the Agraffe Treble.
We would call special attention to our late improvements in GRAND PIANOS and SQUARE GRANDS, Patented Aug. 14, 1866, which bring the Piano nearer perfection than has yet been attained. Every Piano fully Warranted for 5 years.
